

Sharapova takes a “Taste of Paris”

22/05/2015 French cuisine is famous all over the world. The object of lavish praise, it attracts food lovers from around the globe, including Porsche brand ambassador Maria Sharapova.

Connoisseurs from all over the world are currently in France to attend one of the biggest food festivals there is: the “Taste of Paris”. A total of 14 star and aspiring chefs are cooking up the best of what French cuisine has to offer for four days at the Grand Palais in Paris.

Maria Sharapova did not want to miss out on that, so at the invitation of Porsche, one of the event’s official partners, she came to Paris for the opening celebration. Her assessment: “Paris the city of beauty. Great food, great design and fashion. Being here in this beautiful building overlooking the Seine brings back great memories.”

Things won't be as relaxing for the world's number 2 women's tennis player on Sunday, May 24, when Sharapova takes to the court once again in a quest to capture the French Open title.
