New Porsche jobs and careers website

Porsche has totally renewed its jobs and careers website for optimum display on computers and mobile devices. Applicants can expect an informative and up-to-date presentation of the company.

In revamping its jobs and careers website, Porsche has not only expanded the information on offer and simplified the layout, it has also extended the website's functions. Applicants and interested parties can now obtain a broader picture of what Porsche has to offer as an employer. The new structure provides sufficient room to publish employer services, such as flexible working hours models or how to reconcile work and family life.

Responsive design for mobile devices

In addition the website relaunch opens up new technical options. Now the content can also be displayed conveniently and attractively on smartphones and tablets. Not only is the reach extended by automatically integrating content on Facebook and links to other social media channels, the website is also more attractive since information is constantly updated.
