15/03/2019 The Spree River outside, the Lab inside – Porsche Consulting in the capital.

Focusing on people, guiding change, making space for innovation—Porsche Consulting management consultancy does all this and more. Success needs the right atmosphere. It can be found in places like Berlin. The capital city is on the move. The new neighborhood is determined by small offices, staffed internationally with courageous young minds. They have imagination, ideas, determination, and the entrepreneurial spirit needed for startups. In the midst of it all is the Berlin office of Porsche Consulting. Looking out: the Spree River and the district of Kreuzberg. Looking in: the Porsche Lab and everything that connects Porsche with the future. The Porsche consultants are pleased to share their work stations and views—with their clients' employees, for example, who work here for a while to develop new ideas. Our video series offers insights into the office on Stralauer Allee.
