

Porsche expands charging options with Plug & Charge for greater flexibility

20/01/2026 Porsche Charging Service adds Plug & Charge at over 27,500 Tesla Superchargers in North America for simple, seamless access.

Porsche Cars Canada, Ltd. (PCL) today announced that Plug & Charge functionality for all Macan Electric and model year 2026 Taycan models is now available on the Tesla Supercharger network via the Porsche Charging Service. This integration offers a faster, more efficient charging experience at over 27,500 Tesla Superchargers in North America – simply plug in and go – while maintaining secure, encrypted transactions. Plug & Charge technology eliminates the need for apps or credit cards at compatible charging stations for active Porsche Charging Service members. As result, Macan Electric and model year 2026 Taycan customers can now enjoy seamless authentication and payment, reduce waiting times and make long-distance travel even more convenient.

The feature will also be offered on the Cayenne Electric when it arrives in Canada later this year.

This marks significant progress with regards to convenience for our EV customers," said Trevor Arthur, President and CEO of PCL. Increasing Plug & Charge access makes charging simpler and more user-friendly, moving us closer to a seamless electric vehicle experience."

Over the past year, Porsche has expanded its charging ecosystem to give EV customers greater flexibility. In addition to Plug & Charge at Tesla Superchargers, the Porsche Charging Service now includes software updates for Taycan and Macan Electric models as well as complimentary NACS/CCS DC adapters.

Porsche Charging Services also support Plug & Charge at Electrify Canada stations, providing even greater flexibility for drivers on the road.
