05/02/2020 How executives shape the future.

New technologies and societal changes are determining the future of companies worldwide. Porsche Consulting shows how decision-makers can shape this transformation. Škoda CEO Bernhard Maier is relying on adaptability combined with courage for the car maker to become a provider of mobility services. Phasing out nuclear power in conjunction with promoting renewable energies while ensuring that energy supplies remain stable – this is the task being tackled by Nikolaus Valerius, Member of the Executive Board of the RWE energy group. And Porsche CEO Oliver Blume seeks to "shape the future and act sustainably as an entrepreneur with innovative ideas to ensure the world remains a livable place." Whether they're advancing electromobility at Porsche, restructuring the iconic Bentley company, or developing new disruptive services for the TÜV Rheinland inspection provider, board members and managers provide glimpses of how they are blazing new trails together with Porsche Consulting.
