

Porsche Golf Cup Australia Challenge 2022

08/02/2022 Four skilled golfers have outplayed more than a hundred competitors to win the 2022 Porsche Golf Cup Australia Challenge. Their next stop: the World Final in Mallorca.

The annual Porsche Golf Cup Australia Challenge is an invitation-only amateur competition for current Porsche owners across the country. Conducted as part of the global Porsche Golf Cup Challenge, owners are invited by their official Porsche Centre to represent them in the hotly contested national tournament.

This year saw 120 players vying for success during the one-day Australian competition, which was held on 7 February at the prestigious Royal Melbourne Golf Club, home to two of the world's pre-eminent golf courses.

The Porsche Golf Cup Australia Challenge awards four category winners.

This year's full day of play was a tightly-held contest, with the following winners announced:

- Men's A Grade: Gary Chong (representing Porsche Centre Brighton)
- Men's B Grade: Reg Hanson (representing Porsche Centre Melbourne)
- Men's C Grade: Steve Xie (representing Porsche Centre Doncaster)
- Ladies Open: Rebecca Tamayo (representing Porsche Centre Brisbane)

Together, they will compete as Team Australia – in both singles and as a team – against Porsche owners from around 20 other markets at the Porsche Golf Cup Challenge World Final, to be held at the magnificent Club de Golf Alcanada in Mallorca this June.

They will be competing to win the same four categories, as well as the team award.

Porsche and golf: a long playing partnership

The Porsche Golf Cup Challenge is made up of various national competition events around the world. The global amateur competition began in Germany in 1988 and has developed into one of the most successful and sought-after customer tournament series.

Mallorca's Club de Golf Alcanada has hosted the Porsche Golf Challenge World Final since 2014.

The Australian Porsche Golf Cup Challenge commenced in 2015 and has seen a number of talented owners compete in the coveted World Final.

Driving much of the annual event's success is the popularity of golf amongst Porsche owners, both in Australia and overseas.

Their shared love of the sport - and their cars - has made it a natural magnet.
