07/06/2021 English series on the Porsche Nord Course: for the fourth time in succession, a top golfer from England has won the Porsche European Open in Hamburg.

At the event marking the return of the world class in Germany, Marcus Armitage left his rivals trailing in his wake after a phenomenal final round performance. He mastered the challenging course known as the "Green Monster" when posting an eight under par score of 208 to leave him two shots ahead of a quartet in second place. For the first time since October 2019, spectators were again in attendance at a European Tour event in Europe. Due to the latest regulations, the tournament was put back two days and reduced to three rounds.

"We've seen some exceptional golf here and having spectators actually at the venue is a success story," says Deniz Keskin, Director of Brand Management and Partnerships at Porsche AG. "Emotional live experiences are a feature of our brand, as is the unique Leader's Car and the spectacular hole-in-one prize."

Though the Porsche Taycan Turbo S Cross Turismo on the 17th hole did not find a new owner in the three days of the tournament, the Leader's Car, the Taycan Turbo S, produced a big smile on the faces of the players that topped the leaderboard after the first two rounds – Thomas Detry (Belgium) and Matthew Southgate (England).

Others that got a big thrill during the week were the tournament's top stars that took the opportunity to test the Porsche Taycan Turbo S on the autobahn between the Green Eagle Golf Courses venue and downtown Hamburg. "This car is amazing, a beast. The acceleration is peerless. It was so much fun," enthused Mexico's Abraham Ancer, the world No. 17 who missed the cut.

Porsche Brand Ambassador Paul Casey also had a lot of fun at the first Night Shootout prior to the Porsche European Open together with his fellow top players Abraham Ancer, Henrik Stenson, Martin Kaymer and Max Kieffer. "Playing the 17th in the darkness with the fantastic illumination was pretty cool," said the Englishman.

An excellent final round enabled the title holder to eventually finish sixth. Even though it was not enough to claim the win, Casey was highly positive when reviewing his performance: "The Porsche European Open is for sure one of the tournaments the boys like to play. It was fantastic that the tournament was played at all after all the issues we've been having."
