

Golfing Enthusiasts chip away at Porsche Sculpture in Gardens by the Bay

21/02/2024 Ahead of the much-anticipated Porsche Singapore Classic, an exciting chipping contest took place at Gardens by the Bay in Singapore, bringing together the event's ambassadors and sports enthusiasts for a unique experience against the backdrop of a stunning art installation.

The trio of golf influencer Rebecca De Foe, beach volleyball player Eliza Chong, and automotive aficionado David Foo took centre stage recently at Gardens by the Bay for a fun golfing activity to drum up excitement ahead of the Porsche Singapore Classic.

The captivating seven-metre tall installation, known as "The Cocoon," was initially unveiled during the Singapore Art Week and served as the focal point for the World Premiere of the new all-electric Porsche Macan, creating a seamless fusion of art and automotive innovation.

Constructed by New York-based architect and artist Marc Fornes in collaboration with Style Porsche,

"The Cocoon" comprises over 6,000 individual pieces of ultra-thin aluminum, drawing inspiration from Porsche's iconic design principles. Against this extraordinary backdrop, the participants engaged in a friendly chipping contest, showcasing their skills and enthusiasm for both golf and automotive excellence.

Commitment to excellence and sporting prowess

Porsche's title partnership with the Porsche Singapore Classic, a prestigious DP World Tour event that is kicking off their "Asian Swing" is scheduled from March 21 to 24 at the Laguna National Golf Resort Club, underscores the brand's commitment to excellence and sporting prowess. As golf fans eagerly anticipate the championship, the trio relished the opportunity to test their skills in this exceptional environment.

Reflecting on the experience, De Foe remarked, "Honestly, I've teed off in front of many people before, but this was one of the most nerve-wracking experiences I've had." Chong, who recently embarked on her golfing journey with insights from Executive Championship Director, Patrick Bowers, expressed her excitement, stating, "Despite being new to golf, it was incredibly enjoyable, and I can't wait for the tournament to begin in March."

As anticipation builds for the Porsche Singapore Classic, this captivating chipping contest served as a prelude to the thrilling golfing action that awaits participants and spectators alike.

The Porsche Panamera Shootout promises to be a stand-out highlight at the spectator village at this year's championship. Eager golf fans, or even beginners can participate in a "nearest to the pin" competition, with the top qualifiers earning a chance to enter The Porsche Panamera Shootout. These lucky qualifiers will each have a shot at a hole-in-one competition, with the prize being a new Porsche Panamera Turbo E-Hybrid – the same as the professionals are playing for during the tournament.
