9:11 minutes of dreams

The new episode of the 9:11 Magazine is dedicated to "dreams." In five episodes, Porsche explores this theme.

1. Sylt, a place for dreams

Timeless elegance: A quality that defines both Porsche and the North Sea island of Sylt. The perfect place for Hollywood star and race car driver Patrick Dempsey to escape the commotion of everyday life: On a drive in the 911 Carrera 2.7 RS Touring amid the quiet and raw natural setting, he draws new energy.

2. Unsurpassed

Aluminum monocoque chassis, ground effects and an air-cooled 2.6-liter turbo engine – new features made the Porsche 956 an extraordinary standout: In the 1980s, the car claimed one title after another. Even today, it remains the most successful race car of all time.

3. Sports car dreams

Owning and driving a Porsche? Unthinkable in the former GDR. But for brothers Knut and Falk Reimann, vehicle engineering students from Dresden, that was the dream. And they knew just what to do: With technical acumen, inventiveness and some assistance from Ferry Porsche personally, they undertook the "homemade Porsche" project.

4. Addicted to snow

The drift is the epitome of cornering perfection: In time with The Blue Danube waltz, the Porsche 911 Carrera S executes exquisite turns in the video. Its dance floor: The snow-covered ice track at the Saalfelden/Brandlhof driving technique center.

5. Collecting dreams

With his "dream works," Hans-Peter Porsche has created a place that brings joy to others. Here he shares his decades-in-the-making collection of very special objects with the world. One-of-a-kind historic tin toys and a huge model railway installation awaken delight in the founder and visitors alike.
