

Motorsports Feb 25, 2016

GT drivers get fit

Tough training in the sun on Tenerife. This is how Porsche GT drivers prepared for upcoming races at the fitness camp.

"Now, gentlemen, please don your helmets." At the Porsche Fitness Camp, intensive strength and endurance units were on the agenda for the GT drivers. The motorsport racers even performed many of these training units, such as weight-lifting or press-ups, wearing part of their racing gear.

It makes them fit and builds strong bonds. By the way that not only goes for the drivers. Instead of just looking on, Dr. Frank Steffen Walliser, Head of Porsche Motorsports, joined in.

But take a look for yourself – in this picture gallery.

The next event awaiting the GT team is the Sebring 12-hour race which takes place on March 18 and 19. This race is part of the WeatherTech Sportscar Championship.

Link Collection

Link to this article

<https://goo.gl/yxQDan>

More articles

<https://goo.gl/EjUDzR>

<https://goo.gl/MkruPf>

<https://goo.gl/YpZb45>

Media Package

<https://newsroom.porsche.com/media-package/porsche-fitness-camp-motorsports-wec-gt-drivers>

External Links

<http://www.porsche.com/usa/eventsandracing/motorsport/>